Why study at Thammasat Business School?

The triple-crown accredited Thammasat Business School (TBS) was established in 1938 as the Faculty of Commerce and Accountancy. It offers a wide range of business education in various fields, from bachelor's to doctoral levels, in both Thai and English. A wide range of fields are covered – including accounting, finance and banking, marketing, management information systems, entrepreneurship and human resource managements, operations management, international business, logistics and transport management and real estate business.

TBS has earned the reputation of being one of Thailand's best business schools with triple-crown EQUIS, AACSB and AMBA Accreditations. Over the past 70 years, TBS has helped over 40,000 graduates take their first steps on the road to success in both the public and private sectors. TBS offers five leading international programs which provide students with a wealth of routes to their chose futures.

TBS builds an extensive network of business partners in a broad spectrum of industries. They enable the School to introduce students to key executives and prominent figures in business. This is also advantageous to our students as a major source of internships and placements, upon graduation, references and important information.

To date, TBS students have won a number of internationally recognized awards, including CFA Global Championship, Ventures Lab Investment Competition (formerly known as Global Moot Corp – the Super Bowl of Business Plan Competition), Citigroup International Case Competition, and many more.
