The Bachelor program Culture

The Bachelor program Culture is a three-year education that leads to a Bachelor degree in Cultural Science. The program consists of a broad education about culture as a policy area and as part of society, about theoretical perspectives and analytical methods, and with skills courses in museum knowledge, cultural management and implementation of a cultural projects. The program also includes one semester with an optional specialization in a subject in Humanities.

Internship – what?

The fall semester of the final third year of the program includes an internship course where the students do an internship at workplaces during eight weeks. To be eligible for the internship course, the students have more than two years of university education behind them and are well prepared for qualified work tasks. These can, for example, consist of surveys, investigations, evaluations, text productions, information tasks, action plans, minor projects, arrangements, exhibition, educational or/and pedagogical activities or something else. The general knowledge and skills that the students on the Bachelor program Culture have acquired have trained the students so that they can also complete their internship at workplaces outside the cultural field. For both the students and their internships, the skills the students have acquired during their education can signify exciting opportunities to test cultural science competencies in more and new work areas than specifically the cultural area.

Internship – how?

During the internship period, the students require the opportunity to be given a broad insight in the various tasks that are part of the daily work at the workplace. According to the syllabus for the internship course, the students are also obliged to carry out some form of independent task during their internship period at the internship workplace. At the internship workplace, the student needs a contact person in the form of an internship host. Together with the internship host, the student agrees on which tasks which are included in the internship and which form of independent task is to be completed, which is written down in a simple template for an internship plan. The internship plan specifies the tasks that are included during the internship and how the student will be given the opportunity to solve their independent internship task. When the internship plan is ready, it is signed by the internship host and the student, and the student sends it to the teacher responsible for the course for approval. The internship plan should preferably be completed by the end of the spring semester before the internship period during the fall semester and at the very latest at the beginning of the fall semester. If changes occur, the internship plan can be revised. After the internship period, the internship host signs a certificate that the internship has been completed according to the content of the internship plan. The student then submits the internship certificate to the seminar leader at the final examination seminar of the internship course at the university.

Throughout the internship, the student is insured via Kammarkollegium's personal injury insurance for students:

Internship – when?

The internship period goes on from October 26-December 18, 2026. During these eight weeks, the student will participate in the daily activities at the workplace during the regular working hours at the workplace if no other agreements have been made.

After the internship period, the student writes an internship report during which is presented during a final examination seminar at the University of Gothenburg week 2

2027. In the internship report, the student is expected to describe the internship workplace and its work tasks, and to reflect on the relevance for work of acquired academic cultural competences. To the report, the students must also attach examples of the individual independent task that they completed during their internship period.

More information and questions

We who work with the Bachelor program Culture and with the students' internship are grateful if you want to cooperate with us and give our students an opportunity to test their acquired knowledge and skills in practical work situations at the end of their education. If you have questions or want to know more about the education, about the internship or about what it means to be an internship host, you are welcome to contact:
